Introduction

I have no doubt you are aware that over the last couple of years the postal auction has been the source of some exceedingly good spoons, which have all sold well, making good money that have delighted their new owners. In this issues postal auction we have again some fine examples, including a rare 17th century Scottish Trefid and a wonderfully heavy Flame-back Trefid spoon from London. And then there is the rare sought after 'Darby Patent' teaspoon as well as a fantastic selection of the usual interesting collectable spoons that cover all price ranges.

Wishing you all the very best, Daniel.

Window Tax and Britannia Standard Silver (A Postscript)

By Anthony Dove F.S.A.

The document transcribed in my earlier article (May/June 2018, pages 4 & 5) is here shown in its entirety. The impressions coming through from the other side show where this sheet was evidently regarded as of such little importance that it was used as scrap paper for the calculation of figures.

Dessert Spoons From The Threipland of Fingask Service

By Colin Fraser

It is not uncommon to hear Finial members discussing the background of an item rather than the item itself. The interest that comes from understanding the background of pieces is a big part of why we all collect. In the case of these mid-eighteenth century spoons they connect us to a very important family and historically important time in Scotland's history.

The Threiplands of Fingask were closely and personally connected to the 1745 Jacobite uprising and the Stuart family themselves. This close relationship secured their collection as undoubtedly one of the most important collections of Jacobite art and relics ever sold. The Fingask sale offered a unique opportunity into an untouched collection of material so closely and personally connected with the uprising. As with many house sales it was this unbroken line of provenance of the contents from Fingask Castle, which sparked the interest. It covered silver, paintings, works of art, jewellery and arms and armour, it was a fabled sale in 1992 and is still one much discussed and whose provenance is sought to this day.

Fingask Castle, near Errol in Perthshire, stands over 200 feet above the Carse of Gowrie and was said to have been inhabited, not in its current form, from as early as 1194. The main tower still surviving however was built in 1594, various additions and changes have been made from this date and two main wings were added in 1674 to the west by the Threiplands of Fingask and in 1828 a northern wing by Patrick Murray Threipland, 4th Baronet. The Threiplands came to Fingask Castle around 1672 when it was purchased, with the estate, from the Bruce of Fingask family and it was added to the established Perthshire family's lands in the area, which extended as far south as Peebles (some 75 miles). In the same year Sir Patrick Threipland was knighted and received the direct thanks from the Chancellor for his efforts in enforcing the Government's religious policies. He was later bestowed a baronetcy by King James II in 1687, confirming the family's staunch and close Stuart support.

However, the political landscape of the United Kingdom was moments from change and by Patrick's death only two years later he had seen his King removed from his throne in the Glorious Revolution of 1688 and by association the close allies of King James such as himself and family turned into rebels. Sir Patrick was imprisoned in Stirling castle for his loyalties and passed the lands, estates and title to his son Sir David Threipland. Sir David not only inherited the title but the staunch Stuart loyalties and was among the first to pledge allegiance to the cause with the Earl of Marr in trying to regain the Stuart throne in 1715. As is well recorded the efforts were in vain, and while Marr was considered a military incompetent and the would be King a melancholy character, neither could cement the support for the cause and the rising was doomed to fail.

Sir David Threipland was given the honour of entertaining Prince James for the night of 7th January 1716 on James's route to Scone for his coronation. Through this close support Sir David not only lost his land and title in this failed uprising but also lost his son, a large burden on any family's support to the cause.

The house of Fingask was forfeited to the victors after being occupied by Government troops through the '15 and was sold as forfeited lands to the York Buildings Company.

During the occupation Lady Threipland gave birth to Sir David's ninth son and eventual heir, both were so ill they were expected not to survive long after the birth. However, the plans for the infant's baptism were in hand and Lady Threipland overheard the discussion and those for choices of name. Even in her weakened and invalid state she was heard to whisper at the choice of name only one word 'Stewart', supporters through the hardest of times!

Three Dognose Rattail Teaspoons by Abraham Harache

By Laurence Joyce

Fig. 1

Three small dognose rattail teaspoons were purchased recently at an auction house in Massachusetts, USA, as part of a mixed Lot that also included candlesticks, shakers and silver-plate souvenir spoons (figures 1 and 2). They were not mentioned specifically in the catalogue description and on viewing the Lot the first impression they gave – because of their crisp unworn condition and golden appearance – was of some modern antique-inspired demitasse spoons made by one of the American silver companies. But the single mark to the back of each spoon (figures 3, 4 and 5), ‘AH’ Crowned over a Cinquefoil, indicated that they were probably not American, nor of recent manufacture.

The spoons vary slightly in weight and length and are all in good condition with little if any wear to the bowl tips. Two of them weigh 10g, the other 11g, and their lengths are 4 1/8in, 4 3/16in and 4 1/4in. They bear no engraving or inscription and are gilt or gold-washed. It is possible or probable that any initials or crest have been erased in the past, though there are no obvious signs.

The maker's mark is identical to the one listed in Jackson's as first noted in 1692/3. The presence of the crown suggests a Huguenot maker and the fact that these spoons bear no lion passant marks seems to indicate that they come from the same stable as the mote spoon discussed in a recent article in this magazine by David McKinley¹. Abraham Harache appears to be the only possible candidate.

As to the date, because the letters 'AH' suggest a sterling mark, and are more likely to be initials than the first two letters of a surname, it appears unlikely that these spoons were made during the years of the Britannia standard.

They were therefore made in one of two periods: between 1692, when the mark is first noted, and 1697; or between 1716 and 1722, when Abraham Harache died. However, as David McKinley pointed out, from 1716 the Goldsmiths' Company were obliged to mark work submitted by persons other than freemen of the Company, and since these three spoons bear only a maker's mark, a date between 1692 and 1697 seems to be the explanation that best fits the facts. Similarly, but in more general terms, an unorthodox practice of marking is more likely to have gone unnoticed or to have been tolerated earlier rather than later.

And if you will forgive me a flight of fancy: perhaps these spoons were brought to America soon after manufacture and might by this means have escaped the attention of the Goldsmiths' Company. Imagine the scene at the Haraches' workshop: "Abraham! There's a gentleman here wants some spoons to take with him to his new home in the American colonies. It looks like we have a job for you".

POSTAL AUCTION INFORMATION

Your written, email or telephoned bids should be with us, please, by no later than 12.00pm, on the day of the sale. Please note that purchase prices are subject to a 12.5% buyers premium (plus VAT on the commission) and £8.50 for postage & packing per consignment.

Members are welcome to come to view the Lots on offer, but please phone or email first.

Bidding

The Lot is offered to the top bidder on approval, at a figure that is 50% the difference between that bid and the under bid. Or where only one bid is received, at 50% the difference between that figure and the reserve. Should two or more members submit an identical top bid the Lot is offered to the member whose bid was received first, at that price. The Lot will be sent to you for approval where you can decide to either purchase or return the Lot.

When submitting your bid(s) please make sure you clearly state the Lot number, a brief description, your bid (excluding premium), name & address and a telephone number.

If you are successful we will telephone you on the day of the sale from 6pm to confirm your purchase(s) and at what price. Also to confirm that someone will be at home the following Thursday morning, to receive the lot(s), sent by guaranteed special delivery.

We request payment within 48 hours of your receiving the lot(s), or their immediate return (together with a refund of the postal and packaging charges (£8.50) incurred in the failed transaction) should you decide not to take up your option to purchase.

Overseas Based Bidders

- If successful, we will notify you by fax or email.
- Please note that Lots are not dispatched until payment in Sterling has been received, also that postage/packing is charged at £17.00 per package regardless of weight or destination, unless stated otherwise.
- Although every assistance will be provided to trace missing packages, but please note that our responsibility ends once a package leaves the United Kingdom.

Vendors

All members are invited to enter Lots (max. 10 & NO 'job Lots') for the Silver Spoon Club Postal Auction.

- Commission is charged at 12.5% (minimum £3.00), or £3.00 per unsold Lot, plus VAT.
